scarcity of food, and consequent distress, prevail to some extent in Kona, Hawaii. The report current last week in regard to exacting duty duty at San Francisco, we desire to say a few upon our Washed Sugars by the revenue officers at San Francisco, appears to have had no fundation in fact. Advices by the Zealandia have no reference to the subject, which fact was well known to everybody on Tuesday morning. We gave the statement of last Friday in good faith, supposing its source to be reliable, and now have pleasure in setting the matter rightly before the public Our aim and determination is to give correct information tipon all interests in which our business men are engaged, so far as in our power; and erroneous statements. inadvertent or otherwise, will be set right as soon as

The demand has been fair at lower prices, severa round lots of Choice No. I having been sold at from 7 kmsc. Sales under contracts to the Befineries have resales under contracts to the Benneries have resulted in from highe advantage over transactions to jobbers. The prices for the various grades of Benned are the same as during the past nine months. We had anticipated a rise in these ere this, but think we may look for an improvement when the Fall trade becomes active; until then, we must not expect any material advance. There are over 15,000 kegs still in first hands. We beg to draw your attention to the following error which has inadvertently crept into our Printed Beview: "We are credibly informed that in future Benners have "We are credibly informed that in future Refiners have decided not to make any more 'C D' Sugar, but to abandon entirely this Grocery Grade." This is entirely wrong, such an idea never having entered the heads of the Refinery Managers.

Rice—During the past fortnight the receipts from Chins have aggregated 185,000 mats; the natural consequence being a weakened market, causing Mixed Rice to drop to $6 19066 per 160 lbs. For higher grades there exists a good local demand. For Hawaiian Table, 6%c.

Imports from January 1st to July 1st: China, 14,185,943 the; Japan, 178,856 do; Carolina, 29,696 do; Hawaiian, 2,042,532 do. Coffee-A new departure in this trade has developed itself in a shipment of 500 tons per Isle of Bute for London. This is calculated to strengthen the market, but as yet no improvement in prices has resulted owing to heavy stocks in many hands. We quote: Costa Rica, 18631856; Manila, 18631856; Kona, nominal at 1756. Oils-Cocoanut, Soc per gallon in bbls; Polar Crude Whalebone—For this article we find no present market. Wool-Prices have remained steady for the past two weeks; without any special activity, however, to export, there being no large buyers in the market. We quote: Northern 2062 26c-latter for best lots; Southern, 146,19c, Hides-Dry, 15 & 616c; Wet Salted, 86,3c; Wool Skins, 56c,90c; Shearlings, 15c,21c.

Flour-Golden Gate, $5,62 k.

Freights-Have continued stagnant during the pas week, and we have no spot charters to report, as exporters have had all they wanted to attend to securing Wheat to load the engaged ships; many of which, being for July loading, were in danger of going on demurrage. Rates of freight are entirely nominal at present, owing to the absence of any demand; £2 is to Liverpool direct for small iron, and proportionately for other kinds of vessels. While there is no immediate prospect of any demand for ships, or an advance in freights, there is a general belief that the export season has commenced in earnest, and that by September we shall have a good steady demand for tonnage. There appears to be a de-termination on the part of owners not to allow their vesvels to go at rates now current, and tonnage continues to firmly held. Outside business has been quiet. So Minber charters have been drawn at extremely low rates, but it would seem as if the West Coast was tolerably well supplied for the present, there now being eight vessels engaged here and at the Sound, with a capacity of 475,000 feet. At the close, we have 52,697 tons in port unengaged to load Wheat; 10,441 tons miscellaneous; 59,685 tons diengaged; and 204,158 tons on the way.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 17. RESPECTING the report, to which we alluded | News in our last, to the effect that Hawaiian washed sugars were hereafter to be subject to words in addition. By the mail steamer which arrived from San Francisco on Monday night, we are in receipt of advices to the 5th instant, but nothing whatever is intimated in our letters or in newspapers as to any such change in the customs regulations as was asserted would be made in letters received by the D. C. Murray, on the 7th inst. Moreover, a merchant of this city, who is closely connected with sugar growing interests, and who came as passenger by the mail steamer from San Francisco, informs us that the story may have originated in San Francisco.

it was, to say the least, quite premature. Those interested in the sugar business here will remember that in November, 1876, the Collector of the Port of San Francisco, deeming that a certain invoice of No. I washed sugars from Honolulu was too white to pass as unrefined, assessed thereon a duty of five cents a pound. This was paid by the importer, Mr. Spreckles, under protest, and the question was submitted to the Treasury Department at Washington. The decision and ruling of the Secretary was to the effect that all Hawaiian sugars under No. 20 Dutch standard must be admitted free of duty, under the Treaty of Reciprocity. With this ruling still extant, and which has governed the action of the customs authorities of San Francisco and Portland as well as the manufacture of sugar by our planters for over a year past, we are at a loss to understand upon what grounds the question can be again re-opened at this time.

SESSION LAWS, 1878.

For the information of the public generally we propose to give the principal and more important points of the laws passed at the late session, and which are not printed in full in these col-

as the "Phillips" Divorce Act, has been on several occasions examined and criticised in the columns of this journal, and the views we have expressed as to its unfitness and want of application to the past and present state of society here, seem to have been recognized by the late Legislature as sound, for the amendments now made will render the Act less burdensome to those who may have cause to seek relief through its provisions from wrongs they cannot longer bear. It is of course to be regretted that cases should arise in which a severing of the marriage tie would be advisable. people, and no amount of sophistical or sentimental argument can disprove the fact that there are a great many cases in which a legal separation would really be a blessing to the parties themselves, and tend to elevate the standard of public morality. With these views, we have heretofore held that the needed remedy for evils which are too notorious for denial should not be so hampered with restrictions of time and costs as to make the relief sought unattainable. The amendments to the Act of 1870 have removed some of the unnecessary obstructions which have operated in many cases as a complete denial of relief. Section 4 of the new law, which amends Section 8 of the old, is one of the best of the amendments, as it gives the Court power to make the decree of divorce absolute, thus freeing the parties from the six months' " conditional" suspense, and the poor from the additional expense of a six weeks' publication in two newspapapers of an "attested copy of the order." If it be that circumstances arise in the lives of a married couple that demand a severance of that relation between them, we unhesitatingly say that a sound public policy requires that the legal restrictions and obstructions to such severance should be as few and as light as the great importance of the subject will admit. Another important Act is that regulating the carrying of passengers and freight, and the letting of carriages, etc., in the district of Honolulu. Sections 1 and 2 place the authority to grant licenses for the purposes specified, in the hands of the Minister of the Interior; and fix the duration, price, etc., of such licenses. Section 3 constitutes the Marshal, or his deputy, inspector of the carriages and vehicles licensed, and makes it his duty to prosecute all violations of the Act. Section 7 clothes the Minister of Interior with power to make, from time to time, rules and regulations to be observed by the licensed parties, copies of which are to be furnished them, and also copies of any changes that may be made in such regulations. These rules, and subsequent changes, are to be published in some public newspaper, and will have the force of law. The huddling together of the express carriages in favorite localities-notably near the bank and postoffice - sometimes assumes the dimensions of a public nuisance, rendering the street nearly impassable, and the propriety of placing their stands at points where they will not interfere with public convenience will be admitted. In regulating this matter, we are sure fairness will be shown to all parties. By Section 8, the Police Justice of Honolulu takes cognizance of all cases arising under this Act, and has power to revoke licenses, for just cause, in his discre-

The Act to regulate the landing of passengers arriving at different ports in this Kingdom is one that will commend itself to all, for good and substantial reasons. We are in the direct pathway of steam communication between China and Peru; a steam line has been inaugurated, and there will soon be a large passenger traffic between those countries. A moment's reflection will show the danger of the introduction of some dread epidemic or contagion-small-pox, cholera, or fever-which a little precaution against the indiscriminate landing of passengers will prevent. Section 1 provides that ships from China, or any Asiatic port, calling at ports in this Kingdom, shall not disembark passengers without first obtaining the assent in writing of the Governor, or Collector of the Port. Section 2 requires the commander of the ship to furnish a duplicate list of the passengers he desires to land, one of which shall be signed by the Governor or Collector and returned to him. Section 3 provides that if passengers are allowed to be landed without such permission, the commander shall be liable to a fine of $20 for each passenger so landed. Our readers will recall the case of the Glennsanox, which touched at this port nine or ten years ago from China to Central America, and the habeas orpus case in the Supreme Court attending her visit. This Act was apparently drawn with a view to prevent the occurrence of any similar case in the future. The law was approved Aug.

A Visit to Kilauea

Mr. J. M. Davidson, a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of these Islands, is the author of the following well-written account of a visit to the crater of Kilagea, which is printed in the Denver (Colorado)

" So different is the scene presented from what the visitor expects that it is difficult to describe it intelligibly, or in such a manner as to give the reader any distinct idea as to its appearance. The crater of Kilauea is nine miles in circumference, mean width three miles, surrounded by a well-defined rim. The bed of the crater is 600 feet below this rim. The active burning lake is in the south end of this crater, and at a distance can be seen as indicated by vast volumes of smoke and vapor arising around and above some rocky projections adjacent. To this point the sight-seer is conducted by a guide, and there, standing on the brink of projecting scoria, he looks down on the strangest and wildest element, surging and throwing its fiery spray as it madly while there he made thorough inquiries as to the | beats against the surrounding walls, from which it source of the report, but with no satisfactory re- seems to be impelled by some unseen power, only to sult. It is therefore quite evident that, however | level down and become of sombre hue, and drift back | to be overturned and Isshed into waves and crimson shreds that fall back into this massive cauldron. The heat is very great, and burns the face, and the brightness of the broken elements is painfully dazaling to the eye. There is no sameness or monotony, and from the smooth dark surface of a minute's duration, fringed by crimson lines, fiery flames issue with a hissing sound, each furtive glance giving a different view, and then deep rumbling as of a troubled sea is followed by the wildest and most violent agitation. Hours might be spent gazing at the changing, infuriated element. Over much of the road from Hilo to the volcano, 30 miles, there is scarcely any earth, showing a recent volcanic formation. Varied vegetation has commenced growing vigorously from the scarcely distinguishable soil of decomposed lava, and, indeed, the scoria now produced and thrown out by volcanic force is very friable, and its formation is usually in thin layers, easily crushed under the foot of the pedestrian. The bottom of the main crater and exterior of the burning lake is composed of layers of lava of different colors and different comparative structure, interlapped and intertwined as it cozes along, and, at short intervals, the slowly-moving masses pressing on their heavy, burning fronts, still liquid, though far off from the burning cauldron. You can thrust a walking-stick into it and easily detach quantities of the consistency of sugar when struck from the vacuum-pan, or thin mush. The bed of the main crater was some few years ago several hundred feet deeper below the unchanging surrounding rim. It rises and falls without any fixed or regular periodicity. The active lake of fire is One of the Acts of the session of 1870, known at present 600 feet below the rim or surrounding country, and the dimensions of the burning lake 300 yards long by 100 yards wide. This lake or cauldron is constantly changing its size, form and location from cycle to cycle, slowly waltzing around the vast area of the great crater. The lava is at present thrown out of the lake by a subterranean passage on the west side, in a river, and presses its way, dividing into many slowly-moving streams, throughout the western half of the inclosed plain, each stream at night showing its size and encroaching course, and to the visitor, standing on the rim immediately above, gazing down, it looks like a vast city at his feet, irregularly illuminated by the sport of revelers. As the lava is cooled, it is driven into all manner of shapes, breaking like ice under the influence of changing tides, and as one walks over the newer formations, looking No one can have a greater reverence for the down between the broken fragments, can be seen a sacredness of the marriage relation than our- few inches beneath the cool surface, bright, shiny, selves, but we know well the social habits of the living fire in massive quantities. A pipe conducts vapor from a fissure in a rock to the room in which you sit puris naturalibus a la Russ, and when you say "ready," a valve is opened admitting the vapor in any volume and of any temperature you desire. When you feel as if you were in Tartarus and about to give up the ghost, shout " alia!" to the native superintendent, and the valve is closed and the vapor shut off. You are then doused with warm and then cold water, rubbed dry with towels, submitting to the Lomilomi-a native remedy for all human ills, which consists in working and kneading your body with their hands as if it were dough. You then don fresh linen, and being very clean and Oriental, but smelling like a match-box, you feel, if ever in your life you did feel-and it's funny when you feel that way-like taking a drink; but, by our lady, you must carry your own ammunition, for strong drinks are rare in that volcanic dale.
